

CLIC

Region: Cormòns (Friuli), Italy

Owners: Fabio Coser & family

Website: www.roncodeitassi.it

Winemaker: Enrico Coser

WINERY PROFILE:

---

Clic was created by young winemaker Enrico Coser from Ronco dei Tassi (son of founder Fabio Coser), with the objective of introducing a new generation of wine drinkers to the pleasures of the grapes and wines of Friuli. The name Clic, in Friulian dialect, refers to a “small glass of wine to be shared with friends” – precisely the aim of this lineup of wines. The Clic wines represent a great value and focus on drinkability, bottled with a screw-cap closure and sporting decidedly modern packaging.

VINEYARDS AND VINIFICATION:

---

Fruit for the Clic wines is sourced from estate vineyards and neighboring growers in the Collio and Isonzo areas. The official Collio wine-growing zone encompasses a banana-shaped area among the hills around Gorizio, in the far north-eastern corner of Italy on the border with Slovenia. Friuli Isonzo is located in the far southeastern part of Friuli, on a plain of alluvial soils along the Isonzo river just south of Collio, hence its name. Both the Collio and Isonzo benefit from an excellent diurnal temperature variation (given the proximity to the Adriatic Sea providing warm daytime winds and cool night-time breezes from the mountains to the north) combined with nutrient-rich soils, creating an ideal environment for growing vines and producing unique, high-quality wines.

The grapes for Clic wines are picked early to maintain varietal freshness and keep the alcohol low, resulting in pleasant wines that are full of fresh fruit. Though the Clic philosophy focuses on producing simple, easy going wines to be enjoyed on any occasion, these wines are far from ordinary.